DAIGNEAULT APPROACHES 400 WIN PLATEAU

Concordia men's basketball coach, Doug Daigneault, will be looking for his 400th career victory behind the bench this weekend when the Stingers compete in a tournament at McGill University.

Daigneault's 399th win came October 27th when his club captured its own Adidas Tip-Off Tournament by beating Trois Rivières in the final.

Daigneault who is in his 19th season as head coach, will have at least three tries to reach the magic plateau this week. Friday night the Stingers will meet St. Mary's University (6:30 p.m.) followed by matches Saturday night against York (6:30) and Sunday afternoon versus host McGill (2 p.m.).

A former standout performer with Ottawa and Montreal in the Canadian Football League, Daigneault began his coaching career with Loyola College in 1966. He quickly built up the program into one of the strongest in Canada, capturing five conference championships and registering an unprecedented string of 66 consecutive victories in league play. Following the merger of Loyola and Sir George Williams University in 1974 Doug was appointed Associate Athletic Director and men's basketball coach and embarked on a new chapter in Quebec basketball history.
